Changes in the Constitution

The convention, gathered at Guthrie since Wednesday, are very busy shaping the constitution into its final form. It may well be that second thoughts are best but we had such a good constitution as it was that we view any changes, necessary as the convention deems them, with regret. The changes announced thus far, however, do not weaken the document, but rather make it stronger. The labor interests still have the check they need in preventing the issuance of corrupt court injunctions, and the judge can maintain the dignity of the court by punishing for contempt committed in its sessions. The legislative apportionment has been gone over again so carefully that the census officials may enumerate as long as they please. The corporations have been given the loophole they desire to escape from control of the power that creates them, by appealing to the federal courts. This last is a concession to meet the angrily expressed views of President Roosevelt. The initiative and referendum clause has been changed somewhat, but not in a way to damage it essentially. We, as a people, are inclined to view legislative tinkering with disquiet, but the convention has already made good, and what it does now is a concession rather than a recession. Nevertheless, we would have preferred the constitution makers to sit tight, except in cases where they know they are in the wrong.

BRAKEMAN BADLY BURNED

Red Blythe, Breakman on the E & A Local, Badly Burned And Cut

Red Blythe a brakeman on the E & A line, fell from a freight car yesterday afternoon and was badly burned and cut about the face, and had both wrists sprained.

The team was switching on the Ice Plant track, and Blythe, who was to ride the cars back, was on top of one of the cars, and the engineer, thinking the cars were uncoupled, started the engine, throwing Mr. Blythe to the ground into a bed of hot cinders. He fell on his head and shoulders and narrowly escaped breaking his neck.

He was immediately taken to a nearby drug store and medical attention given, and it is to be hoped that his injuries will not prove serious.

Mr. Blythe is a man about thirty years of age, and came to this city about a week ago from Chickasha. This week was the first time he has been on the road since he was in a wreck at Enid about six months ago.

Filed by Franz.

the said Keotah in lieu of a license for running a house of prostitution.

That the said Police officers made no effort to suppress the crime of prostitution in Anadarko, and drive the women guilty of running such places out of the city, but brought them into police court every 30 days, making complaints against them for the purpose of having fines assessed against them in lieu of a license, and this affiant believes that said police officers had an understanding with said lewd women that they would arrest them once every 30 days, and if they would regularly pay fines, the said police would permit them to run bawdy houses in said city, and affiant refers to the record in the police court in substantiation of this charge against said police officers.

H. FRANZ.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12 day of July 1907.

L. N. VEDDER,

Deputy County Clerk.

The above affidavit is to be followed by others setting forth further Mr. Franz's side of the case and the hearing of all the facts is set by the County Commissioners for Monday.

The Orpheum Farce Comedy Co.

Mr. Hildebrand pulled against a team of horses weighing 2800 pounds last night. Everything was examined thoroughly by competent parties and they were satisfied it was strength only that accomplished the feat. Mr. Hildebrand offers $100 for any fake.

Vivian is an actress of merit and has a beautiful voice which rendered her ballad singing very pleasing.

Charles A. Polley is a comedian and dances and also does a side splitting comedy contorsion act.

Harry Van the man in black is very clever.

Mr. Hildebrand pulls against the horses again tonight. The company introduces several new specialties tonight.

The company leaves tomorrow for Chickasha, where it is to be hoped that they will meet with better success.

Be alert, attend Goldman's July clearance sale, every item a bargain.
